

"BURIED BY THE GERMANS"

The Inscription on Wooden Cross on the Grave of Quentin Roosevelt

IN EDGE OF WOOD AT CHAMERY

Grave Is Found by an American Aviator on American Front

With the American Army on the Vesle, Wednesday, Aug. 7 (By the Associated Press).—On a wooden cross at the head of a grave at the edge of a wood at Chamery, east of Fere-en-Tardenois was this inscription.

"Lieutenant Quentin Roosevelt, buried by the Germans."

German newspapers announced several days ago that Lieutenant Roosevelt, who disappeared during an aerial combat on July 17, had been buried by the Germans at Chamery, but until today the grave was not discovered. It was found by an American aviator. The inscription is in English.

BUYING A SHIRT IN PETROGRAD

To Accomplish This Takes Time, Patience and Determination—First, One Must Find the Shirt.

Petrograd, July 30 (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—The difficulties hedging in existence of those who live in Petrograd during these times of disturbed regime and shortage in necessities of life, extend in all their details to the ordinary simple task of buying a shirt. To accomplish this takes time, patience and determination.

First, one must find the shirt. One may visit 40 shops before he finds one of the proper size. The question of preference of style is not to be considered for one moment. Otherwise one will never get the shirt. Having found something that resembles a shirt of the proper size, one deposits a small payment to hold it.

The next thing is to convince one's house committee—there is a committee in every apartment house in Petrograd now—that he needs a shirt. If the house committee passes favorably on the subject, it so reports to the precinct or district "soviet" or commune. This in turn reports to the commissary in charge of the distribution of shirts and kindred articles of clothing.

If one is quite lucky, after five or six days' time, he receives a duly signed and sealed permit to buy a shirt. Then he buys it, but ordinarily pays the Russian equivalent of $15 or $20. Some of the poorest quality may be found as low as the Russian equivalent of $5.

This restriction of purchase extends to all major articles of men's and women's clothing and shoes, and recently, because of the linen and cotton goods shortage, was applied to handkerchiefs. Prices for everything are in proportion to the shirts, an ordinary suit of men's clothing costing the equivalent of $100.

U. S. SMASHES ALL RECORDS IN SHIPBUILDING

More Vessels Launched in July Than for Any Whole Year in Its History.

Washington, D. C., July 8.—American shipbuilding records were smashed last month. More ships were launched during July than ever left the ways in a whole year in this country. Figures made public yesterday by the Emergency Fleet corporation reveal dead weight tonnage of 631,944 were launched.

The following table shows the accomplishment:

Types of vessel.	No.	D'weight tonnage.
Steel	67	433,244
Wood	53	187,000
Composite	3	11,700
Totals	123	631,944

41 Completed During July

During July, 41 vessels with a total dead weight tonnage of 235,025 were completed. Of these, 36 were steel ships with a dead weight tonnage of 217,025, and five were wooden with a total of 18,000 tons. And these do not include two vessels of 15,855 weight tons (together) which were delivered from Japanese shipyards.

Had these been counted the grand total of ships completed for the shipping board during July would be 43, with a total of 250,880 dead weight tonnage.

SEARCH FOR GERMAN PROPAGANDA

Three Manufacturing Concerns of Reading, Pa., and Their Associates in New York Under Suspicion.

Philadelphia, Aug. 8.—Search warrants are being executed upon the offices of three manufacturing concerns in Reading, Pa., for German propaganda and similar researches are being made on offices and homes of certain persons in New York, Chicago, and Lancaster, Pa., according to a statement issued by United States District Attorney Francis Fisher Kane.

The Reading concerns are the Textile Machine works, Berkshire Knitting mills and the Narrow Fabric company. According to the district attorney's statement, they are controlled largely by two German-Americans, Ferdinand T. Thun and Harry K. Jensen.

New York, Aug. 7.—Agents of the department of justice searched the residences, offices and mills of six individuals and corporations here yesterday in an effort to locate alleged German propaganda and records of funds said to have been spent in conducting it.

Armed with search warrants, officers entered the residence and offices of Rudolph B. Agestretter, the offices of William Kaupke and C. H. Unversagt, where records of money spent for German propaganda in various parts of the United States were alleged to have been kept. Other offices visited were those of Jensen and Events, and the Berkshire Knitting mills.

MOST BRILLIANT IN ANNALS OF WAR

Lloyd George So Characterizes General Foch's Counter-Offensive—Everyone Wants Peace, But It Must Be Durable.

London, Aug. 8.—General Foch by his counter stroke had driven the enemy back, and although the danger was not over "he would be a sanguine man on the German general staff who now would predict that Germany could obtain a military victory," said Premier Lloyd George yesterday. The premier characterized General Foch's counter-offensive as "the most brilliant in the annals of war." The Germans, declared the premier, had attempted their land offensive because the submarine offensive had failed.

Mr. Lloyd George stated that during the month of July 305,000 American troops had been brought over, 185,000 of them in British ships. Since August, 1914, including those already with the colors, Great Britain alone, said the premier, had raised for the army and navy 6,250,000 men, for the most part voluntarily. The dominions had contributed 1,000,000 men, and India 1,250,000 men. One hundred and fifty German submarines have been destroyed. Mr. Lloyd George announced. More than half of them in the last year.

The premier was speaking in the House of Commons, making a statement on the war situation. The House will adjourn to-day until Oct. 15.

Unless all the allies were defeated at sea, Mr. Lloyd George declared, Germany never could triumph.

Mr. Lloyd George, in alluding to the subject of peace, said the people who had made the war still were in evidence, and they could not have peace so long as they were predominant in the councils of the enemy. Everyone wanted peace, the premier added, but it must be a peace that was just and durable—one with power behind it. In further reference to the fighting in France, the premier declared it was too early to say the German effort had been exhausted. The Germans still had powerful forces in reserve, he pointed out, but it was not too early to say that the chance which they had had on March 21 would not again present itself.

The American army, the premier said, soon would be not far short of the German army itself.

Dealing with the German offensive against the British, Mr. Lloyd George said at first there were many anxious moments and that the losses were considerable in men and material. But in a month, before the battle was over, he added, 350,000 men had been sent across the channel to take the places of those lost, and in six weeks the Germans had been hurled back and fought to a standstill.

The German people and Germany's allies were beginning to be disillusioned, the premier continued. In March, Germany was promising great things and the peace treaties from her allies were withdrawn. The promise, however, he pointed out, had failed and the German harvest was short, although militarily the Germans had been at the height of their power.

Russia, said the premier, had become a log to the feet of Germany. The Russian people, however, had resented the interference of Germany with them and were more and more seeking allied help.

"We will not hesitate to give it to them wherever it is possible," he added. The premier praised the work of the Americans in the fighting in France, speaking of the "trained skill" they had displayed and the "skilled knowledge in management of the men," of which their officers had given evidence.
